Narrative Description of Property: This 2 story commercial store front was built in 1914. It is built in the colonial Revival period while staying true to its neighboring older buildings. The first floor façade has three display windows and two entry doors to the store. The second floor entry door is to the right (south). The windows and doors are modern. The entry to the second floor an original 10 panel wood door with large transom. The second floor windows are a group of three large picture windows (single hung) with a leaded fan light transom above. There are pilasters, crowns and a keystone all masonry. The building's brick is a sand color brown. The cornice is metal painted red, with brackets, rosettes and a half circle marquee with scrolls.

Significance: The criteria of eligibility are associated to Criterion A & C (Properties significant for their association in or linkage to events and architecture/artistic value) for its significance to the history of Northville, important because of its association to establishments and entrepreneurs that had a positive impact on the village. It is also important for its architecture being that this building was built 1914 when the economy had turned, lumbering was about to end in Northville, and a store front was built to fit in with the earlier built store fronts while still being built in the Colonial revival style. This is truly an interesting and unique building.

NORTHVILLE FIVE AND DIME STORE was also known as the James Willard Block, 1914, the J. J. Newberry Co 5 10 25 Cent Store, and the R. C. Dewitt 5 and 10 Cent Store.

Dr. John Blake's house was originally on this property. It burned in 1890. Another house, a Queen Anne style was soon built to replace it. Dr Blake had a daughter by the name of Lulu who married James Willard. In the 1912 the Queen Anne house was moved to the corner of First Street and Division. (Where it still stands and is known as the Resseguie House, 141 N First Street) 1914 the James Willard Block was built for a five and dime store. This building was built to house the R. C. DeWitt Co. 5, 10, 25 Cent Store. In later years it became Newberry's 5, 10, and 25 Cent Store. Upstairs in the front was for offices and the back section was a huge recreation room, used for dance, parties, banquets etc. The upstairs was closed down by the fire department when the owner of the building refused to build a fire escape. Today (2009) the name of the store is Northville 5 & 10 and is privately owned and run by a local family.
